
Title: Navix's Recollection Ch2

Author: Dominatria 6/14/2003

(see Ch. 1 for previous exerpts.)

Before I would leave to go see what this message was about, I quickly sent two more pigeons, to Mordis and Tylus, informing them to meet at Shadowspire. When I got there, the two men were there and already waiting. I told them not to ask any questions, but only that I'd need their help. We then left to meet in Caina at the Asylum where my night had first started. We walked into the Casino and greeted XShadowX. He then told us that he had found another book of the Kindred. I knew this was a trap, right from the moment he began to summon a gate to the new Regency Tower, but I needed the book... I had to save my family, The Kindred. I rushed into the gate as only Tylus followed me.

As we reached the roof of the tower, two of the Sages were chatting, almost nervously as we three entered. After a long chat, I asked for the book with the Kindred names in it. He refused, I asked again... calmly. He again refused. Then, Kronos turned his back as he yelled the words, 'Guards!' Out of the shadows, Yew militia as well as XShadowX

surrounded the two men
from the Society.
Kronos then placed me
under arrest and sent me away to where I sit
now, in the floor of this jail cell. I await your return of words as I shall ignore the guards outside and try to gather my rest for the long day tomorrow eve.

(A red ink signature)
-Navix Zergii